

I am a New York based artist with a passion for drawing and painting since childhood. I have spent many years as a Museum docent and volunteer, as well as a public and private school educator.

In my work I allow my unconscious to guide me in the process of creating images about movement, rhythm and whimsy. Most of my pieces are not pre-planned. I use acrylic and watercolor paint in a spontaneous manner to create vibrant and colorful pieces composed of gestural lines. By sharing the work I transfer my initial impulse into a unique experience for the viewer with an opportunity to make his or her own interpretation. The results are always a pleasant surprise!
